

January 25-29

Fifth graders are busy preparing for standardized testing that will take place the first week of February. During literacy time students have been working on their writing skills and studying “mini-lessons” about word choice, organization, conventions, and main ideas. This will help them to do their best on their tests. Please also make sure they get enough rest and have a good breakfast on the assessment days.

Literacy: New novels have begun! Mrs. Deutsch’s class is reading A Wrinkle in Time, Mrs. Mac’s class is reading I Am the Ice Worm, and Mrs. Fitz’s class is completing an independent novel study.

Math: This week our division unit will be wrapping up with a review & assessment. Unit 5 is fractions.

Social Studies: Colonization research continues this week. Students will be reading about travel & transportation and continue with their two column note taking.

Science w/ Mr. Cosby: Fifth graders are enjoying learning how different substances are heated and how they create energy.
